This Week's Reflection

Above the Arctic Circle in Russia is an oil town called Murmansk. A miserable place, its winters last most of the year. In the mid-90s, the SDA Church was dying there. They once had 22 members, but because people don't move there unless they must, the attrition rate was severe, and they ended up with only eight members - the pastor and his wife and six men who worked in the rigs.

They did a reality check and concluded they were destined to die unless something radical were to take place. They decided not to look to their circumstances but to the Lord. They began to pray for the Holy Spirit and to yield their lives in full consecration to Jesus. For accountability and encouragement they came up with an idea.

Every icy morning at six, the seven men met at the Walrus Club, stripped to their shorts, walked onto the frozen lake to a designated fishing hole, and submerged themselves in the hole, one after the other. Then they knelt around the hole, arms on each others' shoulders, and earnestly prayed for the fire of the Spirit to melt their hearts with love for souls!!

Within a year of this practice, they brought 80 people to the waters of baptism and in the next few years, 6 churches were planted!!

"Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit, says the LORD of hosts." Zech 4:6
