Sermon Blurp

Imagine having a meal with Jesus. Sitting on the same table. What type food would you prepare? Which foods would certainly not make it to the menu? Whom would you invite? What conversation would you have? Enjoy a Meal With Jesus.

This Week's Reflection

The James Webb Space Telescope is the largest and most powerful space observatory ever launched. A few days ago, NASA unveiled a series of high-resolution colour images revealing what it describes as "cosmic cliffs," "galaxy evolution," a "dying star's final performance," and the "steamy atmosphere of a distant planet in detail."

The more we learn about a work of art, the more we learn about the artist. The better we understand a musical composition, the better we understand and can appreciate the composer.

In the same way, the more we learn about the vastness and complexity of creation, the more we learn about the vastness and complexity of the Creator.

Rather than disproving or rendering irrelevant the biblical worldview, scientific discoveries continue to show the genius of the One whose work they study.- (Denison Forum)

And yet, our Father "determines the number of the stars; he gives to all of them their names" (Psalm 147:4).

Commenting on this fact, Charles Spurgeon observed, "He who counts the stars and calls them by their names is in no danger of forgetting his own children. He knows your case as thoroughly as if you were the only creature he ever made or the only saint he ever loved."
