This Week's Devotional

Betrayal is such a bitter word. It's always personal. It hurts. You invested yourself in someone and that person purposefully turned away. Whenever you place your trust in a human being, you risk betrayal. We just don't have the wherewithal to remain 100 percent faithful. But God does. And He promises never to betray the trust you place in Him. He'll even be there to pick up the pieces, to comfort you, when others fail you. The Psalmist David was inspired to write "He will shelter you with His wings. His faithful promises are your armour and protection."(Psalm 91:4).

As you read this and find yourself in a similar situation, talk to God with me and say, "Lord, after betrayal, I want to close off my heart to everyone who could potentially hurt me but I trust You to hold me tight while I heal. I open to you and allow Your promises to mend me. I want to keep my heart pliable to You. Please give me Your strength so that in time I will trust others again."
